

Child Well-Being Network Meeting Notes January 28, 2015

- Child Well-Being Program & Organization Inventory - Much of the discussion during the meeting was centered on the county inventory being compiled. The inventory will be used to develop the network. It was decided that the inventory must be broken down or “bucketed” in some way. The proposed categories during the meeting were: child safety, education, housing, drug & alcohol prevention, health, employment, early childhood development, and family engagement. We are working to acquire the 211 list to determine how they categorize services and programs before we finalize our categories. We will use the categories to determine how the network should be structured.
- 211 Contact Information – 211 was discussed at length and we want to ensure we are not duplicating their effort, but instead using it as a tool to prepare our inventory. Many were surprised that their organization’s information was not updated on the 211 website, so this would be a great opportunity to update your information on the website. We are working to have a 211 representative at the Human Potential Task Force meeting to give an overview of the program. The Child Well-Being Network is a subgroup of the Human Potential Task Force. Next Steps

- Continue to work on your county inventory. 211 is a great resource to start with, but please ensure the programs and organizations listed for your county are comprehensive and add to the list as needed.
